THE BISHOP WALKS OUT.
MR. ROCKEFELLER ADVISES.
MR. FORD VISITS MR.
CURTIS.

By Arthur Brisbane

BISHOP JAMES CANNON, JR., the yesterday declining to answer the Senate lobby committee, walked out, disregarding orders to remain.

Senator Walsh called it "an open case of contempt."

Another case of contempt sent a well known oil man to jail. But any lobby committee would realize that an oil man playing the races is different from a bishop "playing" the stock market.

JON D. ROCKEFELLER lives quietly, plays golf, leaving men younger than 91 to run Standard Oil. But he keeps track of the world and when he advises he advises wisely. Much wisdom was condensed into the few words he said to a player in his foursome: "Be deliberate" and "talk less and play better." That is a good "how to succeed" recipe.

HENRY FORD, going to visit Cyrus H. K. Curtis, arrives just in time to read an editorial published by Mr. Curtis that will surprise Mr. Ford.

It says: "Prohibition reform is going over." And "Nothing can stop the growing intent of the people of the United States to preserve the good of the experiment, noble in motive, but to end its unexpected and unnecessary evils."

HENRY FORD has said that if prohibition went and beer came back, he, Mr. Ford, would close his factories, because men with beer can't work fast enough to keep step with modern machinery.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis also owns modern, rapid machinery. He and Mr. Ford might have an interesting discussion, if they could get their minds off advertising.

YOUNG LADIES, graduating in a college for women, are urged by the Rev. Dr. Robert Parrish to "be brain and money women."

We owe much of education, science and art to rich men, says the doctor, and must not "despise wealth."

NO TENDENCY to despise wealth is visible in this country. But many still maintain that the "brain and money woman" is not as desirable as the "charm and baby woman."

THE BOY that invested one dollar in a derby lottery and won $149,000, "split the money three ways." His brother got $35,000, he kept $35,000 and gave his father $79,000.

There was no quarrel. Each felt that he was getting about all the money in the world.

Everything is comparative. Many men in the United States would call the total $149,000 "not worth thinking about."

BRITISH MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS abandon the attempt to conquer Kanchenjunga, and transfer attention to another mountain in Asia called Jonsong 24,300 feet high.

In proportion to size the Jonsong peak is not as high as one of the little rough spots on an orange.

INFRA-MICROSCOPIC creatures climbing such an orange "peak" would equal the achievement of any human climbers. We climb and fly up less than one-thousandth part of the earth's diameter, and praise ourselves.

GENERAL ATERBURY, head of the Pennsylvania railroad, plans a Chicago-to-New York train to make the run in 14 hours doing 90 miles an hour by electric power.

If Pennsylvania engineers have planned it, the thing will be done, undoubtedly.

Airships will make the run in three hours, before very long, and a slight change in transportation methods might bring on the earth's surface a speed of 150 or 200 miles an hour.

DECENTRALIZING TENDENCY

It has been the custom to estimate a city's rate of growth during the ten-year period between censuses by its rate of growth during the preceding census period. Many American cities with expectations carried far past reason, have had reason to curse such a fallacious practice during the last few months. It is absurd to suppose that because a city grew at a certain rate in one decade under one set of conditions that it will grow at the same rate in another decade under another set of conditions. It rarely happens, but city boosters fail to remember that.

Errors from this reasoning have been in two directions. Some cities' expectations were too high; other cities' expectations were too conservative. The decade has been one of great encouragement to the smaller city on the whole, but the big centers of population have made only moderate gains. Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Washington, Newark, Indianapolis, Seattle, San Francisco, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Jersey City, and Rochester all over-estimated themselves, while Atlanta, the exception in the group that proves the rule, came out ahead with a 7.4 per cent gain.

In contrast with the big-city group are the smaller groups. Of the 51 cities having populations of from 100,000 to 300,000, five showed gains of more than 100 per cent and eight others gains of more than 50 per cent. There were Miami, Fla., with 272.1 per cent; Long Beach, Calif., with 154.3; Houston, Tex., with 110.3; Chattanooga, Tenn., with 106.4, and Oklahoma City, with 100.3. Percentage gains in eight other cities in this group ranged all the way from slightly more than 50 per cent to slightly less than 100 per cent. Gains of more than 100 per cent were shown in five of the 82 cities having between 50,000 and 100,000 population. Of cities between 15,000 and 50,000 reporting in the census 33 showed gains of more than 100 per cent and 44 others gained more than 50 per cent in the last ten years.

There is a marked decentralizing tendency in all the large cities. Outlying communities are being developed rapidly for residential and industrial purposes and reports from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and St. Louis will reveal the true proportions of the movement. It is entirely reasonable to suppose, however, that by the time of the next census the larger population centers will have succeeded in annexing most of the communities dependent upon them. If they are successful in so doing, their actual rates of increase in 1940 will approach closer to their expectations than they have done in 1930.

New York City figures that delegates to conventions held there, which average three a day throughout the year, yearly spent in the city between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000. Conventions in our smaller cities, of course, do not give a proportionate return by way of sales, but it's an open question if they do not afford more than a proportionate benefit in advertising.

What Others Say

THE KING AS A SYMBOL
When King George V. observed, the other day, the twentieth anniversary of his accession to the throne of Great Britain, Ireland and the Dominions Beyond the Seas, London newspapers commented on his devotion to duty, his self-effacement and tact, and his pious observation of his functions as a constitutional monarch. The Laborite Herald added that the monarchy is even more strongly enthroned in public esteem than when he succeeded to it crown and scepter.

He is just a symbol, this king—a somewhat puzzling symbol to many Americans, but a mighty one to his loyal subjects. When the British press extols his devotion to duty, they mean his duty to represent British power and glory, British steadfastness, British ideals and standards. For that is practically all there is for King George to do. Just as the British constitution is unwritten, so, also, is that for which the king stands an envisionment of the mind, at once tangible and intangible. He is unwritten and invisible, if we may strain a metaphor, and then again he is the visible embodiment of British pride and British sovereignty.

He is the center and core of respect for constituted authority, in other words. And this is something rather beyond any possession of the American people. We respect our president, and we ought to and mostly do revere our constitution, in our American way. But the president is a man instead of an office, since he has large duties and responsibilities that are actively of government, rather than passively of symbolism. And our constitution is a written document, explicit, in a sense, where the British charter is implicit. We are not ingrained with respect, nor habituated by precedent.

And sometimes it seems that we need some such symbol as is a part of the British scheme of things—not a throne, a crown, a scepter; not a monarch, in any sense of the word, or anything else than a republic of our own jealous maintenance. But if we had a sign and symbol, apart from our workaday governance, might we not cherish that deeper reverence for law and order which we sometimes appear to lack? We would not exchange our government for that of any other people. But do we honor its essence as we might?—Minneapolis Journal

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

CORRECT DIET FAULTS
Proper nutrition is the most important problem confronting the young mother. It means a constant battle to carry out a program that shall assure nutrition for the normal growth and development of her child.

Unless a child learns the habit of eating properly very early in life, it may mean that he will be weakly, sickly, flat-chested and under-nourished generally. But this is not all, for all sorts of troubles are apt to go with them—poor teeth, poor eyesight, catarrh, colds, and a low resistance to disease.

This matter of nutrition for the growing child is so important that it should be shouted from the house tops! People are so busy they do not want to be bothered. Well, there is just one thing about it. It is the paramount thing to think about this precious health of your child.

Every mother should inform herself about food values and all the simple rules of hygiene which have to do with the health of a young child. Study a good book on the care of a child. There are myriads of them. Consult your family doctor about the best combinations of foods for your child and follow his directions.

Up to the time for weaning a child, about a year old, the diet will have been carefully directed. Before the teeth are formed, the child can be given cereals, properly cooked and strained, so that no indigestible hard lumps or even small particles are left in it.

To cook cereals for so young a child they should be steamed in a double boiler for two or three hours. This should be done, no matter if your cereal is advertised as a quickly cooked variety. It is only after long cooking that the cereal grains are made soft and nutritious.

After weaning, a child should still have plenty of milk to drink, but the amount will be reduced somewhat to afford an appetite for some of the solid foods. Cereals with whole milk, several varieties of strained vegetables and fruits may be given.

Cream soups and strained vegetable soups are excellent. Lamb, beef and chicken broths with rice or tapioca are excellent for the child's luncheon.

Introduce all the new foods gradually and in very small amounts. Follow your doctor's orders as to what these foods shall be.

Most children from the time they are a few weeks old are given orange and tomato juice. The child up to two years should follow this rule.

Youngsters cannot have strong bones, pure blood and healthy tissues without painstaking cares by the parents in their proper feeding. Regular hours for food, plenty of food, and the fresh air and sunshine make for their perfect health.

Let me emphasize the necessity of sunshine for every child. That radiant energy comes not from the visible rays of the sun but the ultra-violet rays of short wave length. These rays are most intense from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and in the summer months are more intense than in the winter. Now is the time of year for the children to be out in the sun to get its beneficial effects.

There can be no danger from pleases or other degenerative diseases when your child has the proper food and sunshine and fresh air. A proper study of this nutrition business, and strict adherence to it, covers the whole problem of health for the young child.

Answers to Health Queries
M. G. Q.—What causes catarrh of the ear and what treatment is advised?

A—The trouble is probably due to a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat which has affected the ear. This must be cleared up first of all. For full particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, June 7

A very active and intriguing day is the augury based on the mutations of important planets. While Jupiter is in trine aspect with Luna, promising increase and fertility of business affairs, with fruition of the best hopes and wishes, yet domestic, social, or romantic associations may have some peculiar or irregular slant. It would be wise to keep firm control over the conduct, restraining from impetuosity and rashness, the position of Mars stirring up turbulence and vexation.

Those whose birthday it is may seek for a year of fulfilled ambitions, with increase and progress in business. But there is need for husbanding the resources and refraining from precipitant actions or hasty investments. The personal affiliations may have some unusual adventurous denouements. The personal conduct should be circumspect and conservative.

A child born on this day should be active, resourceful and energetic and should tenaciously follow its ambitions. It may be disposed to financial recklessness or gaming.

Highlights Of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

The first Sunday school in Ohio—

—at least the first record of it—was organized in Marietta in the early months of 1791. The Indians had become very hostile and authorities ordered all families in the settlement to leave their houses and move within the fortification. The fortification was a block of buildings enclosing an open space 140 feet square and this became the common yard for all the families.

Mrs. Mary Lake, who had been a nurse in the war of the revolution, noticed that on Sunday afternoons

the children played about the enclosure in a boisterous way, and it required care to keep them within the proprieties of the Sabbath Day.

She proposed to have a school on Sunday afternoons where there could be religious instruction for them that their immature minds could receive. Her proposition was approved and she conducted such a school every Sunday afternoon, teaching the children Bible lessons and instructing them in the Westminster catechism until the end of the Indian war in 1795.

The next year she removed to the sub-treasury in New York and the details of the transfer were to be worked out by Gallagher, though, of course, they were first laid before the secretary and received his approval. Before any passengers had been admitted, a chest bearing

Gallagher's name was brought on board the steamship "Georgia," bound from New York to New Orleans, and placed between the floors in the ladies cabin. Only three persons aboard the craft knew she carried a million dollars cash—Gallagher, the captain and the first mate.

Only one accident was experienced during the voyage. Soon after the "Georgia" left Key West, she went on a ledge of one of the Florida Keys, and skillful seaman brought her off without serious damage, after an hour's maneuvering and the rest of the trip was uneventful.

The "Georgia" docked at New Orleans on a Sunday morning. Gallagher waited until all the passengers had been landed, then coolly went up to the landing and hired a man with a horse and wagon to take off his chest. Seated in the wagon with the driver, the chest in the rear. Gallagher rode into the office of the assistant U. S. treasurer and delivered the million dollars in safety, secrecy then being the sole safeguard of the valuable charge.

Then he went to the telegraph office and sent Secretary Corwin a telegram of but two words: "all right."

INDIAN BOYCOTT AGAINST BRITISH STORES BEGINS

Police Raid Headquarters Of Nationalists For Third Time

(By The Associated Press)
BOMBAY, June 6.—Three hundred native policemen with lathis or staves, and 50 armed police all under the command of 30 European police with revolvers today surrounded the headquarters of the all-India national congress here and raided the premises. It was the third police raid since launching of the civil disobedience campaign.

Picketing of European shops in the fort or foreign quarter of the city began today in accordance with decision of the Bombay "ware council" of the all-India national congress.

Two volunteers, dressed in khaki shorts and wearing Gandhi caps took their positions in front of each of 12 European shops and urged Indians not to enter. Europeans were not molested.

A humorous touch was added to the proceedings by one European firm of outfitters which provided stools on which the Nationalist volunteers might sit.

British forces in the northwest frontier province, centering about Peshawar, were believed today to be sufficient to meet an advance of frontier tribesmen against the city but the situation was such as to cause some apprehension of serious fighting.

A large force of war-like Afridis and Zakka Khels was understood to be moving up Peshawar. Unrest was said to be increasing among tribes further north.

Tuesday two buses returning empty from Subhan Kharw were ambushed enroute to Shabkadar for almost within the limits of Shabkadar village. The driver of the first bus was shot dead and his victim burned but the second driver escaped with minor wounds.

The present hostility of the tribesmen was credited in British circles here to activity of Indian nationalists, who were said to have disseminated the idea among them that British rule in India was at an end or nearing its end.

TWO KILLED IN FIRE AT WHARF

Blaze Traps Wharf Master and Son
On Ohio River in Kentucky;
$5,000 Cargo Destroyed

AUGUSTA, Ky., June 6.—Two persons burned to death here today in a fire which broke out at a wharf on the Ohio river. The victims were James Wayson, 76, wharf master and his adopted son, Hobart, 14.

The wharf belonged to the Greene line which operates between Cincinnati and Huntington, W. Va. Damage was estimated at $8,000.

Witnesses said the flames consumed the wharf and buildings located on it within ten minutes due to a strong wind which swept the fire through the timbers.

Wayson and his adopted son lived at the wharf. Their bodies were found after the wharf burned to the water level. Evidently they were trapped and had no chance to escape.

The "Chris Greene," one of the fastest packers operated by the Greene line, left a $5,000 cargo on the wharf at midnight. The cargo was destroyed.

Grange Officers In Mahoning Meeting

General plans for grange work were discussed by masters, lecturers and secretaries of the granges in Mahoning county who held a conference Wednesday evening at the Greenford grange hall. V. E. Crouse, county deputy, was in charge.

Mrs. Crouse, who is juvenile deputy, had a conference with juvenile matrons of the county at the same time.

June 24 is Mahoning county day at the Wooster experiment station, and J. C. Hedge, pomona lecturer, asks that the grangers of this county get up parties to attend the activities planned for that day.

Hedge will take the club boys of Mahoning county on a two-day trip, which will be concluded on June 24 at the experiment station.

Mahoning, Stark and Columbian counties will hold the annual tri-county picnic this year, although no date has been set.

Columbian county commissioners will then pass the necessary legislation to improve the road from Lisbon through Guilford and westward from that point.

Build Modern Hatchery

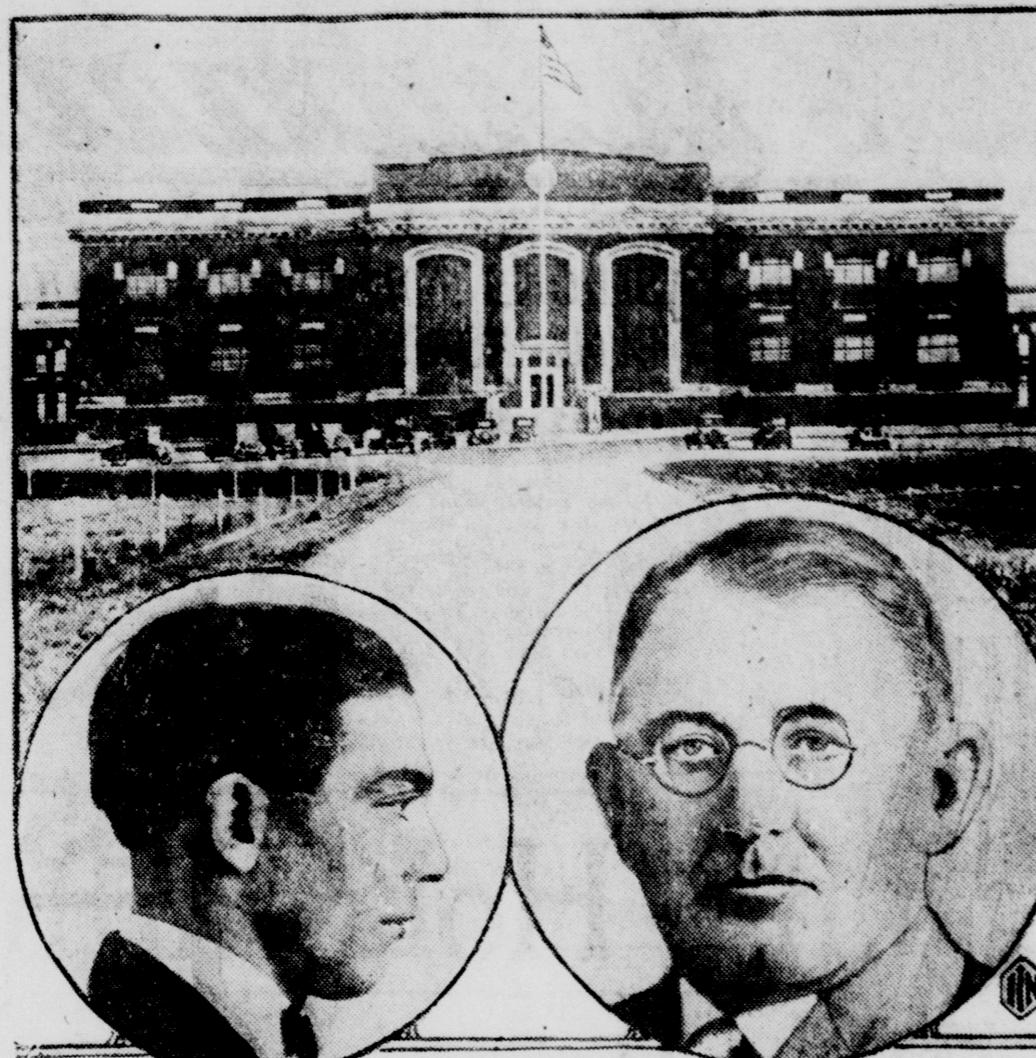

"It will not take very long to cover the hundreds of acres with water, and the lake will be stocked with fish as soon as practicable.

The hatchery that the department will build at Guilford will be the most modern that can be built. Water from the lake will be piped into the hatchery pools, and from there will have a natural fall into the west fork of Beaver creek.

"I can assure the sponsors of Guilford Lake park that the project will be finished by the department of agriculture within a very few months, and the lake will be formed to its full height by September."

Director Green informed the three county officials he conferred with that Guilford park would be listed officially by the department of agriculture as one of the scenic spots of the state and that the project is also to receive the full protection of the state, with Deputy Game Warden L. W. Boring in charge of this phase of the state's plans.

Alcohol Explosion Wrecks Ohio House

CLEVELAND, June 6.—Consideration of a legislative program affecting every motorist in the state and a contest for the presidency will mark the 29th annual convention of the Ohio State Automobile association opening here today.

Resolutions will be presented asking that all revenue obtained from the gasoline tax and license fees be spent on road construction and maintenance and recommending a drivers' license law including a requirement that motorists prove themselves financially responsible in case of accident. The association also is expected to take a stand against any increase in the license fees. The fees now range from $4 to $10 and it was reported some legislators are considering a new scale of $10 to $18.

R. J. Schmunk, vice president of the state association and president of the Cleveland Automobile club, and L. B. Timmerman, former president of the Lima Automobile club, are expected to put up a spirited fight for the presidency.

Membership in the state organization is expected to be reported at 125,000, the largest civic body in the state.

The turn the victory dinner took last night was startling. Few persons anticipated that Cox would declare for the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Attitude Not Forseen

That it was not foreseen by even some of the party leaders was indicated in that shortly before the meeting a copy of prepared address of Davey was distributed to newspaper men. The text of this address was devoted altogether to a prediction of victory for the Democratic hosts.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Canton also took a fling at the prohibition question, assailing the Anti-Saloon league, its leaders and its policies.

"Leaders of the Anti-Saloon league do not care what your habits are," he said, "just so you will bow down morning, noon and night to Westerville and vote as Westerville dictates, if you will do this, you will get Westerville's support—providing you are a Republican."

Cox declared he had no intention of becoming a candidate. He pointed to the merits of the Democratic candidates now seeking the governorship and the senatorship and told his hearers that it was not necessary to draft any one.

Both Cox and Pomerene promised their voices would be heard throughout Ohio this fall in support of the state and senatorial ticket.

OPPOSITION TO TARIFF GROWING

Steek, Democrat Of Iowa, Adds His Name To Opponents

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The voting strength of the senate opposition to the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill was increased by one ballot today as the measure for the fourth time went back to conference for further revision.

Senator Steek, Democrat, Iowa, whose attitude had been regarded as uncertain announced he would vote against the bill. Terming himself a "protection Democrat," he assailed the measure as "a fraud if not a crime."

Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, called the conferees together today in the hope of rewriting dispute clauses in time to reintroduce the conference report before adjournment this evening.

The bill went back to conferences after Vice-President Curtis had sustained Democratic points of order contending the conferees had exceeded their authority in writing provisions affecting the rates on cheese, watch jewels and rayon and a clause relating to the temporary free entry of cattle from Canada and Mexico for pasture purposes.

The house late in the day conferred and reappointed its conferees.

Prison Shadow Lifts for Expectant MotherFIRE THREATENS HOTEL IN EAST

Guests Flee In Night Clothes As Blaze Destroys Bathhouse In Atlantic City Early Today

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.—Guests at the Chelsea hotel, fronting this resort's famous boardwalk, fled to the street scantly clad early today when fire destroyed a one-story frame bathhouse opposite the hotel roof.

Sparks showered upon nearby buildings and bell boys from the Chelsea were formed into a bucket brigade to extinguish the embers as they fell upon the hotel roof. Although the hotel was not damaged, many of the guests gathered up their valued possessions and left the building. The fire provided a spectacular sight for the thousands of visitors thronging the resort.

Because of the location of the fire in the heart of the hotel district, the entire city's fire department was called.

Communistic Regime In Russia Has Strong Foothold; Living Conditions Reported Very Low

MOSCOW, June 6.—A trip of more than 5,000 miles through central Asiatic Russia by American newspapermen showed that the Communist regime is making considerable progress industrially, but that the standard of living is very low.

The correspondents were guests of the Soviet government at the opening of the new Turkestan-Siberian railroad at Aksuabak, Uzbekistan, and their observations showed that there is a serious shortage of such indispensable foodstuffs as bread, meat, sugar and butter.

Most of the railway station bu-fets and restaurants were destitute of edibles of any kind except black bread, bad bologna sausage and fish.

In several instances Russians came to the correspondents and complained of high prices and lack of food and articles of clothing.

They looked with envious eyes upon the international dining car in which the correspondents had their meals. But in spite of the insufficient supply of food, the masses of people looked surprisingly healthy.

The Soviet government makes no attempt to conceal this shortage of food and other necessities. It declares that the harvest this year will more than offset the present crisis and leave a generous margin for the country's needs next winter and spring. Much, of course, will depend upon the success of the spring sowing campaign and the output of the collective and state farms this year.

Observation and inquiry by the correspondents also showed that politically the Soviet regime is firmly entrenched internally. Here and there, notably in Kazakhstan and Tashkent, rumors were heard of sporadic risings and discontent, but these apparently were confined to small, isolated groups and were easily suppressed. All along the route of travel Red army soldiers and secret political police were seen in liberal numbers, especially at the railroad stations.

Of far greater interest to the correspondents than the formal opening of the new Turkestan-Siberian railroad were their visits to Samarkand and Bokhara, the last strongholds in Asiatic Russia of a medieval civilization founded by Ghengis Kahn and Tamerlane, which for 500 years has been slowly dying.

Apart from the appearance of a few Soviet co-operative stores, the influx of a large number of Russians, and the establishment of a Soviet gendarmerie, these ancient cities remain pretty much as they were at the time Columbus discovered America.

It was highly interesting to observe the efforts of the Soviet government to introduce a modern socialist regime among the primitive peoples of the changeless desert, who for a thousand years have lived the same darkened lives and followed the same barbaric customs.

The majority of these "children of the steppes," for children they are in mentality and simplicity, do not understand what Communism is, and seem to care less. They follow a primitive, patriarchal form of existence and dwell in great dome-shaped tents made of felt, which resemble the tepees of the North American Indians.

They seemingly want only to be allowed to follow the trails of their fathers and to have a tent to live in, a camel to ride on, and two or

HARD-SOFT LARGE-SMALL CORNS

Out To Stay Out — Roots and All
Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails
No More Burning Aching Feet

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a de-lightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and calluses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vibrant—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

J. H. Llase Drug Co., Three Stores and all good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

COLUMBIANA, June 6.—Plans are progressing rapidly for the Columbian High School Alumni association banquet to be held June 20 in the school auditorium. The ladies of Grace Reformed church will serve dinner and the Lutheran Sunday school orchestra will furnish music.

J. Ross Flickinger, class of 1889, will be toastmaster for the banquet, and the program committee, consisting of Miss Leila Beard, Mrs. R. J. Barlow, Mervin Moore and Leo E. Holloway, is arranging for a number of brief toasts. Dr. Howard Hayden, Youngstown, will welcome the class of 1930, while Lloyd Wenseler will respond for his class.

Among those who have accepted invitations to be on the program are Harvey S. Firestone, class of 1887, of Akron, and Mrs. Harriet Ballard, Cleveland. Miss Linda L. Snyder of Waynesburg, high school principal for many years, will be here.

To Give Vocal Solos.

Miss Margaret Stewart and R. J. Barlow will give vocal solos during the program.

Tickets for the banquet, which begins at 6:30 p.m. are now on sale at the three local drug stores. Any alumnus is privileged to bring guests. The president, Mrs. R. J. Esterly, urges that tickets be purchased as much as possible in advance, so that the committee may know approximately how many to prepare for.

McMeekin; "More Abundant Harvest," Mrs. John Hunn; demonstration, "What Happened to Jane," Mrs. A. E. Stratton, Mrs. Solon Morris and Mrs. John Coyle. Cleveland May Become Center For Artists To Bolster Talent

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, O., June 6.—This middle western metropolis may become the "Naples of the United States"—a sort of paradise in which Americans, with the urge to express themselves, may be given their opportunity to study and sing the operas of the old world at little cost.

And if this delightful possibility of creating "art for art's sake" becomes an actuality, the owners of the voices thus developed and recognized will have the Cleveland Civic foundation to thank. The man behind the movement to aid Ohioans in scaling the ladder of operatic achievement is Francis J. Satler, general director of the Foundation.

"Numerous singers throughout the state have spent years in the cultivation of their voices with the hope that someday they might sing on the stage remaining forever vague and unrealized," says Mr. Sadler, a kindly man, who knows the frustrations of artistically inclined individuals in a machine age and laments them.

Mr. Sadler points to European municipalities, which, he says, cultivate such talents, and give to them inexpensive outlets.

And Mr. Sadler is right:

This much world travellers tell their friends "back home" in Ohio when they return from their globe girding jaunts.

Italy and Spain are particularly inclined toward classical music. Perhaps, they state with their tongues in their cheeks, it is the climate and the environment, linked with centuries of tradition and inherent dramatic instinct—which instinctively recite the sages of the nation in poetry and in ballad rather than in prose and monologue.

Vandals Daub Gen. Lee With Red Paint

ATLANTA, June 6.—The communistic urge must be infecting every section of the country—or nearly so.

There's a statue of General Lee on Stone Mountain Memorial here which has not been treated properly unless you would call smearing yourself full of red paint preparation. Extra guards are safeguarding General Lee's head today from any more vandalism for recently the general's head received a generous dose of red paint from some artful vandals.

Christner Tops Before Attack Of Mammoth Primo Carnera

Italian Qualifies As Titular Contender In Easy Win Over Ohioan

(By The Associated Press)
DETROIT, June 6.—Primo Carnera, "The Ambling Alp," is one of the foremost among the heavy weight contenders today by reason of his 4-round knockout victory over Meyer (KO) Christner, of Akron, Ohio, in Floyd Fitzsimmons' Arena last night.

After a bad first round, in which Christner sent the crowd of 18,000 wild with a barrage of lefts and rights which the giant Italian could not ward off, Carnera began a systematic attack, directed principally at his opponent's bad left eye.

Then came a ponderous right to the chin, with one minute and forty seconds to go, of the fourth round. And the man whom Sharkey, Risko and Knute Hansen couldn't fell, went down. Not until well after the count of 10 was he able to rise.

Christner fought gamely to the end. Aiming his blows high, he used both right and left to good advantage, several times making Primo wince perceptibly. Carnera remained calm throughout, however, absorbing punishment with a smile and smashing back at every opening.

Eighteen thousand skeptics, who paid $76,000 to see Primo in action still said that he can take and give.

African Pygmies Still Thrive; Woman Explorer Tells Of Trip

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, June 6.—Mrs. Delta J. Akeley, the first wife of Carl Akeley, sculptor and naturalist, who died and was buried in Africa, today returned to Paris after a year's expedition hunting the elusive pygmies of the interior of the dark continent.

There are still plenty of pygmies, Mrs. Akeley declared, but they are difficult to locate and disappear like a flash if an intruder approaches.

Mrs. Akeley went into the northern Belgian Congo and came out at Nairobi with a large documentary collection for the ethnological section of the Brooklyn museum and other institutions.

Mrs. Akeley, whose husband died at Kabale, Uganda, in 1926 and was buried on the spot where he slew his biggest gorilla, said that the legend of the pygmies dying out was due to their shyness, which had taught them the art of making themselves all but invisible.

She said she found many villages of the little people, who are the size of normal ten-year-old children. They live in tiny huts made of leaves. They move away at the slightest alarm and constantly are shifting from one food source to another.

If they kill an elephant or other large animal, the next day their leaf village, seldom of more than ten huts, is erected nearby and that it remains until all the available food is gone.

If a white man appears they vanish in a twinkling. Mrs. Akeley said, adding that normal African natives suffer great inroads from disease but that the pygmies are quite healthy and show no signs of dying out.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal
Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets.

ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
